“Metaphysical Landscapes: Painting a World in a Time of Transition”

Marina Moevs’ landscape paintings hover between the catastrophic and the serene. As our planet transitions into a new climate and a new future, perhaps it is time for us to reevaluate our understanding of who we are and of our relationship to each other and our environment. Recent insights and developments in science invite a radically different interpretation of our identity and our place in the world. Marina Moevs will show images of her paintings and talk about the ideas that inform her work. A visual artist living in Los Angeles, she has exhibited her paintings locally and nationally in both museums and galleries.

A true melding of art, math, and science; don’t miss this incredible talk by the artist herself!
